

Preventing the Corona Virus Learning Gap

The Corona Virus has sent most of your students home, and their children as well. Now, they can learn together. Family Literacy is an online literacy program for both your students and their children. As our contribution to education while schools and ABE programs are closed, we will provide free Family Plans (each for up to six people per Family Plan) to any interested Adult Basic Education program who wants them...from now through August.

To experience Family Literacy, log in at <http://www.flclogin.com/adult> as Demo1(adult) and Demo2(child); no passwords needed. If you agree with us that the next few months is the perfect time for parents and their children to be working together on their shared literacy skills, email us at peter@familylearningcompany.com and tell us how many Family Plans you want.

Complete

A K-3 and adult reading and writing program that parents and children use by themselves, and together. Over 8,000 learning activities in English and Spanish based on research and proven to develop the core literacy skills: phonemic awareness, decoding, vocabulary, fluency, comprehension and writing.

Family Plan

The family plan is for the whole FAMILY; it belongs to that family. All members of the family can use any of the activities, and help each other using their activities.

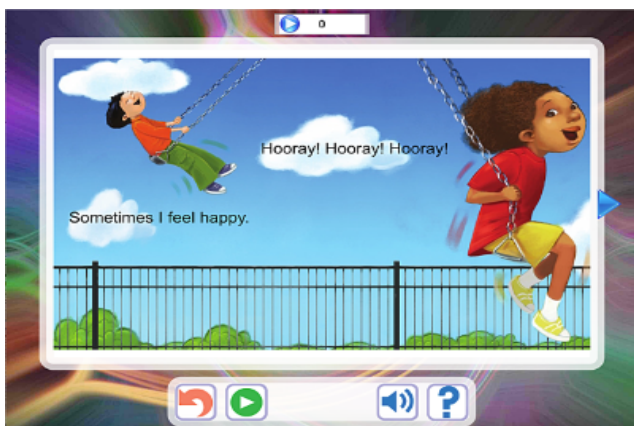

Formative

Learners receive formative feedback on their progress toward their learning goals after every question, after completing every activity and in reports that help them decide where to focus their attention next.

Collaborative

Learners work together to master the activities, increasing their engagement, accelerating their learning and making learning to read more fun. Adults and children set personal learning goals and check on each other's progress.
